What is a cookie?

Cookies are small pieces of information, stored in simple text files, placed on your computer by a website. Cookies can be read by the website on your subsequent visits. The information stored in a cookie may relate to your browsing habits on the web page, or a unique identification number so that the website can “remember” you on your return visit. Generally speaking, cookies do not contain personal information from which you can be identified, unless you have furnished such information to the website.

How do we use cookies?

We use cookies to collect information about visitors’ use of the website, including things like connection speed, operating system details, the time and duration visits and IP addresses. The information collected by cookies enables us to understand the use of its site, including the number of visitors it has, the pages viewed per session, time exposed to particular pages etc. This in turn helps to provide visitors with a better experience. We will not attempt to personally identify visitors from their IP addresses.

Advertisements and promotional information are displayed on this website. These are presented to all users. Cookies may also be used to present specific marketing or advertising messages to you, using targeting cookies (see below for more information about targeting cookies)

Cookies do not in any way compromise the security of your computer.

What types of cookies do we use?

We use the following cookie types:

Cookie type	Cookie purpose
Necessary	These cookies are essential in order to enable you to move around websites and use the websites' features, such as accessing secure websites or secure areas of websites. Without these cookies, services you have asked for, cannot be provided.
Functionality	These cookies allow our website to remember choices you make (such as your preferred language) and provide enhanced, more personal features. These cookies can also be used to remember changes you have made to text size, fonts and other parts of web pages that you can customise. They may also be used to provide services you have asked for such as watching a video or commenting on a blog. Other examples include cookies that keep track of your progress when filling online application forms.
Performance	These cookies collect information about how visitors use a website, for instance which pages visitors go to most often, and if they get error messages from web pages. These cookies don't collect information that identifies a visitor. All information these cookies collect is aggregated and therefore anonymous. FlexiFi Europe Limited uses first-party analytics cookies for this purpose.
Targeting Cookies	Targeting cookies remember individual websites you have visited and help us to present relevant and targeted online advertising to you. Targeting cookies may be placed on your machine when you visit the FlexiFi Europe Limited website page. When targeting cookies have been placed on your device, they can be recognised by subsequent websites you visit, and this allows those sites to present targeted FlexiFi Europe Limited and third party advertising to you. Users can set their browsers to accept or reject all, or certain, cookies. FlexiFi Europe Ltd work with selected third parties, for example VE Interactive Ireland Ltd. here you can visit their Cookies Policy
